

Mark Hummel, James Harman, Pat Ramsey “BLOW OUT”

This event took place at the Bradfordville Blues Club in Tallahassee. We drove up earlier that day and arrived at the club around the times the doors opened. This place is located off the main drag back in the woods. Everyone there was especially friendly; we sat in for all the sound checks as the harp players prepared.

Pat Ramsey started it off and this time had a surprise for us it was his son Clyde, who played harp also. I have video clips of this and more posted under “Videos” on the site. Next Mark Hummel came up and blew everyone away with several tribute songs to James Cotton, ill in the hospital. James Harman finished the night off and then all 3 back on stage for a couple of long deal breakers. These guy’s were smokin’ and everyone was standing as close to the stage as possible, it was great! , I came to this only having seen Pat Ramsey play before and new he was a phenomenal player. Mark and James did not disappoint, it was worth all the effort and cost to be there, I’d recommend coming to the BBC for an event if you want to experience something special. They had a bon fire outside for between set breaks and fresh fried fish outside on the grounds, we met so many great people I can’t wait to go back again!!!!
